Midwest Republicans Open Campaign On Roosevelt

GRASS ROOTS CONVENTION IS LAUNCHED

"Defend Constitution" is Keynote Call Issued by Frank Lowden

BULLETIN
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10.—(UP)—Edward A. Hayes, Decatur, Ill., former national commander of the American Legion, today was selected chairman of the Grass Roots' Republican conference resolution committee through which farm belt delegates are drafting an indictment of new deal efforts to handle social and economic problems on a national scale.

COLISEUM, STATE FAIR GROUNDS, SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10.—(UP)—Grass roots Republicans from 10 farm states today launched a mid-west attack against the Roosevelt administration designed to carry into the 1936 presidential campaign a conservative "defend the constitution" issue.

Speakers called on American men and women of all political faiths to rally around the Republican banner next year to protect the constitution against threats from "high places."

The setting of this unique farm belt rally was a national political convention in miniature.

Shot through the proceedings was the strategy of beckoning conservative Democrats to the Republican candidate next year. Delegates streamed into the flag decked convention hall talking of a campaign which will create a "union of Jeffersonism and Lincolnism."

Three Charges
The direct challenge to the new deal was made of these charges:

1. Roosevelt recovery has resorted to unconstitutional legislation.

2. New deal farm relief has penalized agriculture by sacrificing foreign markets and interfering in the management.

3. Democratic financial policies threaten not only credit but currency inflation which may become largely uncontrolled.

The first big demonstration of the convention came when Harrison E. Spangler, temporary chairman from Iowa, charged that Roosevelt "sought to supplant the American system based upon liberty, for another alien system based upon collectivism."

"His is the challenge of the hour!" Spangler shouted and the delegates leaped shouting from their seats with a roar of assent. After half a minute the racket began to fade but the band lifted it to the roof again with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The state delegations began warming under Spangler's oratory and sounded a series of boos and catcalls from various pledges of the 1932 Democratic platform as the speaker named them.

"They promised to reduce governmental agencies and offices; to practice economy and maintain a sound and stable currency," Spangler said and the boos rose from thousands of throats.

KARPIS IN OREGON LATE LAST MONTH

OREGON CITY, Ore., June 10.—(UP)—A man who gave the name of Alvin Karpis and whose description tallies with that of Alvin Karpis, No. 1 public enemy, wanted for the Bremer kidnaping and dozens of other crimes, was in Oregon City May 25, the day after George Weyerhaeuser was kidnaped in Tacoma, it had been learned here today.

Discovery of the name of Alvin Karpis was made by A. A. Price, superintendent of the state liquor store in checking over the list of liquor purchase permits sold during May. It showed that Karpis bought a permit and a pint of whiskey May 25.

William H. Stokes, clerk who sold the permit and the pint of whiskey to Karpis, said the man who bought them was a young man who conversed with him and discussed the comparison of liquor prices in Oregon and Nevada.

CHINA ACCEPTS ALL DEMANDS MADE BY JAPAN

BULLETIN
PEIPING, China, June 10.—(UP)—Gen. Ho Ying-Ching, Chinese war minister, has accepted all the demands made by the Japanese, it was announced officially today.

TIENTSIN, June 10.—(UP)—Japanese troops and armored cars were sent to Yangtsun, on the Tientsin-Peking railway, where evacuating Chinese troops were reported to have burned a Japanese military telephone pole.

Col. Takashi Sakai, commander of the Japanese garrison here and chief of staff of the Japanese northern China army, was returning from Peiping by motor car when he saw the pole in flames. He saw Chinese troops of the force now evacuating Tientsin at Japan's demand, fleeing from the scene, he said.

Sakai sped up his car to racing speed and came here to report to his chief, Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu, commanding the northern army.

Umezu dispatched the troops at once. He ordered them to investigate and report to him.

COUNTY BUILDING ACTIVITY 60 PERCENT GREATER THAN IN 1934, EXCHANGE REVEALS

RETURNING prosperity to Orange county was reflected today in a report from Robert Hatfield, secretary-manager of the Orange County Builders Exchange, who pointed out that building permits in Orange county cities show a gain of 59.4 per cent in the first five months of 1935 over the first five months of 1934.

Figures from six Orange county cities, Santa Ana, Newport Beach, Anaheim, Orange, Fullerton and Huntington Beach were used to show the tremendous gain in building throughout the county over last year.

Building permits for the six cities so far this year amount to $1,094,720 as compared with $688,569 for the same period last year. Totals of the six cities for May showed the same tremendous gain. The permits totaled $245,549 for the month, as compared with $120,183 for the same month last year.

Hatfield pointed out that these figures are not complete, because there are so many communities where there are no building departments and where no permits are issued, although large structures are being erected.

The figures also did not include Laguna Beach, where the total

BIG CLIPPER SHIP IS SET FOR NEW HOP

Begins Second Flight to Hawaii Late Today; to Continue to Midway

ALAMEDA AIRPORT, ALAMEDA, Cal., June 10.—(UP)—Pan American Airways huge four-motored clipper ship will begin its second east-west trans-Pacific flight to Honolulu, then to isolated Midway Island, at 3 p. m. today, the United Press learned unofficially.

The giant silver "flying laboratory" was pronounced in perfect condition for the hop after a series of exhaustive tests over the San Francisco bay area.

It made its last test flight, a short swing over the bay region, yesterday.

The clipper's crew will be the same six men who took its across on the inaugural trans-Pacific commercial flight last April 17, smashing all records with an elapsed time of 18 hours, 31 minutes from its takeoff here to its landing on Pearl Harbor, Honolulu.

Musick in Control
Capt. Edwin C. Musick, No. 1 Pan American pilot and a veteran of more than a 1,000,000 flying hours, will head the flight. R. O. D. Sullivan, first officer, again will share the pilot duties.

Engineering Officers Victor A. Wright will keep the craft's motors and mechanical instruments checked constantly and W. Turner Jarboe Jr. will operate the clipper's radio, keeping land bases informed of the flying boat's progress and collaborating with Navigator Frederick J. Noonan in riding the course of a radio directional beam broadcast from the Alameda and Honolulu bases.

Purpose of the flight was to "continue and extend ocean flight training and engineering projects initiated on the first California-Hawaii-California transport flight, preparatory to establishing commercial air service" across the Pacific, from California to Canton, China, airways officials said.

POST IS FORCED TO POSTPONE FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—(UP)—A heavy fog that covered this area early today forced Willet Post to postpone his fourth attempt to span the continent in eight hours via the stratosphere.

Post had planned to leave at daybreak in his veteran, globe-circling plane, the Winnie Mae, but a dense fog made the takeoff impossible. He indicated he would leave at dawn on the first morning the weather is favorable for flying.

They were saved from certain death by Lifeguards Claire Van Hardeke and Nolan Hanson, and resuscitated by the fire department inhalator squad.

At nearly the same time the fishing boat skippered by Captain A. C. Lindley broke down offshore near the Bolsa Chica Gun club, and was drifting before the current toward shore. Life Guards Bud Higgins and Pete di Sabio swam half a mile to sea to reach the craft, helping Captain Lindley to keep it afloat until Coast guarders came to the rescue. The weather was favorable for flying.

At San Clemente, Bill McGee, Jr., was nearly overcome in a battle with heavy surf and ground swells. He was rescued after a struggle of many minutes duration, by Lifeguard Elery Adair, and given first aid on the beach. He was later returned to his home on the Santa Margarita ranch.

Swimming near the end of the Huntington Beach municipal pier, 2,000 feet offshore, Al Duprey, 18, and Albert Arterberry, 15, of Huntington Beach, became exhausted by the buffeting they were receiving from the towering waves, and were unable to reach shore.

They were saved from certain death by Lifeguards Claire Van Hardeke and Nolan Hanson, and resuscitated by the fire department inhalator squad.

CONFESSES TO KIDNAPING

Harmon M. Waley, 24, who, with his wife, Margaret, is held in Salt Lake City as the confessed kidnaper of little George Weyerhaeuser of Tacoma, Waley was captured after his wife implicated him as the kidnaper, following her arrest in the Utah capital.

THREE RESCUED NRA EXTENSION BY LIFE GUARD BILL IS GIVEN CREWS SUNDAY RIGHT OF WAY

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(UP)—Administration leaders decided today to lay aside the public utility bill in the senate and try to rush action on the resolution continuing a skeletonized NRA.

The decision came after indications from the Republican side that any effort to bring the public utility bill to a vote would meet with stiff opposition and a flood of amendments.

The Republicans wanted to delay vote on the utility bill until absent members returned to the city.

Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, who had planned to let the NRA resolution live over until the utility bill was disposed of, announced his intention to bring up NRA when the senate convened after its weekend recess.

Although Harrison expected to obtain senate approval of the NRA resolution in short order, there were two impending controversies—one concerning a suggestion that the resolution, passed last week by the house, should go to a senate committee, and the other relating to proposed repeal of a section of the recovery act permitting relaxation of anti-trust laws.

BATTLE FLEET HELD UP BY HEAVY FOG

SAN DIEGO, June 10.—(UP)—The weather conspired today to delay the return of the mighty United States fleet to San Diego harbor. Although the sky was clear within the harbor, miles of rolling fog outside the entrance prevented even a glimpse of the 135 vessels steaming homeward after six weeks of maneuvers.

The destroyer tenders Melville, Dobbin and Whitney entered the harbor shortly after 10 a. m., followed by the hospital ship Relief, but there had been no sign of the flagship Pennsylvania at 11:30 a. m.

TWO OTHERS BADLY HURT NEAR IRVINE

Wheels Lock and Automobile Crashes Into Tree; 26 Autocides This Year

ONE MAN was killed, two others were seriously injured, and another man and a woman received minor injuries at 6:45 Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding struck a tree three miles below Irvine on the state highway.

The accident occurred, it is reported, when the wheels of the car locked as the party, all of Los Angeles, was enroute to see the exposition at San Diego.

The dead man is Michael Krolik, 50, of 420 North Mott street, Los Angeles, who died enroute to the Santa Ana Valley Hospital.

His death marks the 26th traffic fatality of the year to date, tying the record for the same date last year.

Jack Sagorsky, 35, of 2270 Ramona boulevard, driver of the car, and W. Lipshultz of 2821 1/2 Cincinnati street, were at the Santa Ana Valley Hospital today suffering from possible fractured skulls and other injuries.

Mrs. Fay Sagorsky, wife of the driver, and Louis Shonoltz, of 2222 1/2 Brooklyn avenue, were treated for cuts and bruises, and were expected to be present at the inquest, scheduled for 3:30 this afternoon at the Winbier mortuary where Krolik's body was taken.

Two Hurt in Collision
Eugene M. Edwards, 24, 2072 South Birch street, and Richard Pierce, 26, of the Rossmore hotel, received cuts and bruises Saturday afternoon at 4:35 when their car, driven by Edwards, was in collision with a car driven by John W. Sanfers, 54, of 248 South Grand street, Orange.

The accident occurred at South Main and Central streets, Delhi. Sanfers was arrested following the accident by Police Officers C. V. Adams and J. W. Foster and booked at the county jail on a charge of drunk driving.

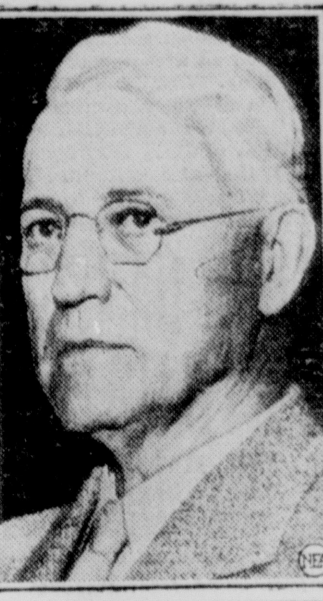

The Edwards car, registered to E. M. and G. R. Edwards, caught fire following the collision and incurred about $10 damage before it was extinguished by the fire department.

Other Accident Reports
Pete Rodriguez, 21, Sylvester Vasquez, 19, Newport Beach, and Albert Garcia, Santa Ana, were injured at 5:15 Sunday evening east of the El Modena school when the car in which they were

FIND HANGOUT OF KIDNAPERS IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(UP)—The hangout of the Weyerhaeuser kidnapers was located today in Spokane, Wash., Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation revealed.

"It is at 1509 West 11th street and was identified definitely only about 10 minutes ago," Hoover said after a long distance telephone call to the west where his agents are "mopping up" the remnants of the gang which abducted young George Weyerhaeuser for $200,000 ransom.

One man and his wife have been arrested in Salt Lake City while another man now is being sought intensively.

While Hoover was telling how the cupboard in which the nine-year-old boy was kept was located in the house, he received a long-distance call from Tacoma.

"Have police guards thrown around the house and don't let anyone go inside," Hoover told his caller. "We will permit newspapers to take pictures of the outside of the house only."

Hoover had upon his desk a closely-typed statement of some 15 or 20 pages, which he said had just arrived by wire from Salt Lake City. He said it was dictated by Harmon M. Waley and his wife, Margaret, who were arrested Saturday and who confessed their part in the kidnaping.

"I am very sorry but I cannot make public this statement now," he said.

Federal Officers Expected to Make Announcement Late This Afternoon

BULLETIN
TACOMA, Wash., June 10.—(UP)—Definite indication that another kidnaper was being sought in the Weyerhaeuser case came today with an announcement by the department of justice here that a complaint had been sworn to calling for arrest of a "John Doe."

One complaint sworn to by Assistant United States Attorney Owen Hughes charged William G. Grant, alias William Mahan, fugitive kidnaper, with using the mails to extort $200,000, on or about May 24 from J. P. Weyerhaeuser Jr., father of the ransomed youth.

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 10.—(UP)—Federal agents today expected all the kidnapers of 9-year old George Weyerhaeuser to be in custody within 24 hours. Awaiting the abductors was trial under Washington's stringent law providing the death penalty for kidnaping.

The agents held Herman M. Waley, 24, and his wife, Margaret. Both made detailed confessions. In various parts of the country agents were hot on the trails of four other members of the ring.

Tight-lipped silence followed announcement here and in Washington that the abduction of the heir of a Tacoma, Wash., lumber fortune had been solved by the confessions of the Waleys, but the movements and optimism of agents made it obvious that additional arrests were expected momentarily.

William Mahan, 35, an ex-convict, was sought in Butte, Mont., where he was forced to abandon a stolen car that contained $15,000 of the $200,000 J. P. Weyerhaeuser paid for release of his son. He was believed to be hiding in the city. A good portion of the ransom money was understood to have been recovered from the Waleys.

Two Men Sought
Two other men were sought. Their identities and their recent movements, it was understood, were known.

Waley and his young wife were held in the agents' offices in the Salt Lake City federal building. They have had little rest since their arrests Saturday. They have worn leg irons since their capture. Federal agents refused to send their prisoners to a prison, although the local jails and the Utah penitentiary were offered.

The Waleys were expected to be taken to Tacoma by airplane today to face the boy victim for identification. Acting Chief of Police O. B. Record said Mrs. Waley had nothing to do with the actual crime, but she was caught passing ransom bills.

Mrs. Waley is five feet, three inches tall. She is 23 years old, weighs 120 pounds, and has brown hair and blue eyes. Agents de-

FORMER SANTA ANAN KILLED IN BATTLE WITH POLICE AT NEEDLES; OFFICER DIES LATER

ECHOES of a gun battle last night in an alley at Needles, in which Forrest Wilmoth, 20, recently of Santa Ana, "shot it out" with Officer Harry Thompson of the Needles police department, bringing death to both participants, reverberated through the two counties today as officers sought to unravel the mystery surrounding the case.

Wilmoth, whose name was first given as J. Bell Wilson, was killed instantly when two bullets from the officer's gun penetrated his body. A third shot missed.

Thompson, with a bullet from Wilmoth's gun through his abdomen, was taken to a hospital at San Bernardino where he died this morning.

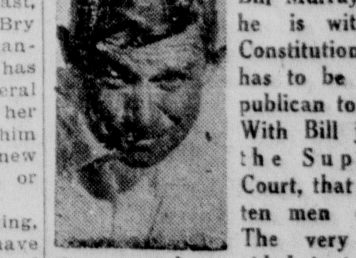

Reports from San Bernardino county today were that Wilmoth, found in an alley back of a drug store in Needles, was questioned by Officer Thompson, who had been appointed to the force only a week ago, when Wilmoth started to walk away.

As the officer called him back, according to reports, Wilmoth wheeled and fired, the bullet striking Thompson in the abdomen. As Thompson fell, he drew his own weapon and fired, killing Wilmoth instantly.

In the dead man's pockets was found an identification card, asking for in case of accident Mrs. O. B. Austin, 605 East First street, Santa Ana, be notified.

Will Rogers Says:

LOS ANGELES, June 10.—(To the Editor of The Register:) See where my old friend, Alfalfa Bill Murray, says he is with the Constitution if he has to be a Republican to do it. With Bill joining the Supreme Court, that makes ten men on it. The very thing that must be avoided is to raise the number. But now that my little joke is over, let me tell you something about Bill Murray. My daddy was a member of the Constitutional convention that made Oklahoma's scenario. And he told me, "Willie, this Murray guy that's running this convention is smart on constitutional law." Say, Bill has majored in that, with a forty-year course.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

TWO CONFESS TO KIDNAPING IN SALT LAKE

scribed her as "plain." She speaks with a German accent and her face is too broad to be pretty.

Downfall of the kidnapers was brought about by a trail of $5, $10, and $20 bills. Before Weyerhaeuser paid the ransom the serial number of every one of the federal reserve notes making up the $200,000 was listed. These numbers were circulated to every bank, federal reserve branch, and clearing house in the country.

The trail led to the Waleys; it followed Mahan across the north-west from Washington to Montana; it was understood to be leading to the two other accused men.

Trapped by Bills
The ransom bills trapped the receivers so quickly that Waley and his wife were in custody Saturday, exactly one week after the child was released near Tacoma.

Yesterday the pursuit of Mahan became so hot that he abandoned his machine and part of the spoils. The complete story of the Waleys' capture was learned by the United Press. Last Thursday a green Cadillac sedan (a green Cadillac was seen in the vicinity of the Weyerhaeuser home in Tacoma in the days immediately preceding the kidnaping) stopped at a service station at Brigham City, near Salt Lake City. Three men and one woman were in it. They tendered a $10 bill for gasoline. The bill was from the ransom.

Friday morning federal agents knew of the bill. Friday night, tellers in the federal reserve bank found 30 ransom bills among the deposits of other banks. These were traced to Salt Lake City stores where they had been passed.

The trail was hot. Police Chief Record ordered closest cooperation with the federal agents. Patrolmen and traffic policemen were put into civilian clothes and with agents and local detectives circulated through stores crowded with Saturday shopping crowds. Clerks had been warned to keep a sharp watch for ransom bills.

At 11 a. m. just a few hours after the stores opened, Mrs. Waley tendered a $20 bill at the Woolworth 5 and 10 cents store. In the few minutes necessary to make change, clerks determined that it was one of the ransom bills. City Detective W. M. Rogers, assigned to the store, arrested her. A few hours later she confessed, implicating her husband, who was taken into custody. Faced with his wife's statement, he confessed too.

Criminal Records
Both Waley and Mahan have extended criminal records. Waley was born in Puyallup, Wash., but has spent most of his life in Salt Lake City. In 1922, when he was 18, he was sent to the Chehalis reform school for burglary. A year later he was sentenced to one to 15 years for burglary. The next year he was sentenced to two to 15 years for the same offense, but the sentence was suspended. Later the same year, when arrested for the same offense, the same sentence was handed down, but that time not suspended. In 1932, after serving part of his time, he was arrested on a charge of automobile theft which later was reduced to vagrancy. He served six months.

Mahan, 25, an experienced criminal, was believed bottled up in Butte. Police Chief Jere Murphy said he thought it impossible for him to escape. All roads leading out of the city were guarded. Butte has only a few highway exits and for miles around there is nothing but open country.

Patrolman James Mooney spotted Mahan yesterday in a gray-green Ford sedan stolen recently from a Utah farmer. Recognizing a stolen car, he started to make an arrest. Mahan saw him, leaped from the car, and escaped. In the luggage compartment Mooney found $15,000 in ransom bills.

Mahan Described
Mahan is 5 feet, 10 3/8 inches tall, weighs 156 pounds, and has black hair, brown eyes, and a medium light complexion. In 1923 he was sentenced to two to four years in Washington penitentiary, and was paroled a year later. In 1927 he was sentenced to 20 years for robbery, escaping prison in 1934.

In the same year he was sought on an assault charge in Centralia, Wash., and in the same year a felony warrant was issued against him in Olympia, Wash. He was born in North Dakota.

Both Waley and Mahan were known to Tacoma police; Waley as a small time burglar, Mahan as a dangerous criminal. Waley was arrested there as recently as 1934 for parole violation. A few months before he had been arrested in Camden, N. J., on a charge of criminal registration. Disposition of neither case was shown. Mahan is known to Washington authorities chiefly as a bank robber. His legitimate trade is that of blacksmith and automobile mechanic.

Escaped from police in Butte, Mont., Sunday, is the object of a vigorous search by Hoover's agents.

At 11 o'clock last night, Hoover began the printing of the identification orders showing the finger prints, photographs, criminal record and description of Mahan. At 6 a. m. today, 25,000 of the orders were moving west by airmail.

"We are making an intensive search for this man," Hoover continued. "And I want to emphasize that anyone who lends him aid or assistance most certainly will be prosecuted under the harboring statute."

Hoover refused to speculate on whether there were more than three members of the kidnap gang, but added:

"Things have been breaking exceedingly rapidly during the last 48 hours. There may be more news this afternoon."

NEW EXAM FOR ORANGE P. O. JOB ORDERED

Appointment of a permanent postmaster at Orange took on a new angle today, when it became known that a new Civil Service examination will be called for the near future.

The Civil Service commission was requested on May 21 to hold the new examination, according to a letter signed by W. W. Howes, first assistant postmaster general and dated in Washington, June 8.

Announcement that a new examination had been requested came today in a letter to V. D. Johnson, secretary of the Orange Chamber of Commerce, who, with Joseph A. Peterson and Frank Thompson, had been cited as eligible to the appointment from a previous examination several months ago.

The new examination, it was believed today, would be a "break" for Mrs. Vera Wettlin, postmistress at Orange under temporary appointment, who had failed to qualify at the previous examination because of lack of sufficient business experience, but who will probably be able to qualify in this regard at the new examination because of her experience as temporary postmistress for the past year.

While the troops were going to Yangtsun, 30 miles from Tientsin, seven great Japanese armored trucks rumbled through the narrow, steaming streets of the native city, aweing the populace. Occasionally they bumped into a ricksha, or tore down one of the gaudy advertising banners outside a shop.

They passed a detachment of Chinese policemen while Maj. Gen. Li Yi-Shu, the new commander of police sent here at Japan's demand, was inspecting them.

Many foreigners and Chinese believe that no steps, however conciliatory, by China will satisfy the Japanese.

In the conferences at Tientsin and Peiping yesterday, Chinese officials—Gen. Ho Ying Chin, war minister at Peiping, and Gen. Chang Chen here—capitulated completely and there was a sort of love feast between the Japanese and Chinese officials.

But it was indicated this was the calm before a storm.

Japanese military commanders announced they would wait a few days for full compliance with their demands as the result of Gen. Ho's "almost satisfactory" reply.

R. B. Curtis received bruises and cuts about the head and arms when his motorcycle struck the side of a car driven by O. S. Wilson, as Wilson was turning into his driveway on Walker street, north of Cypress.

Albert Seely, 28, 812 North Van Ness street, was treated at the county hospital for a fractured leg received in an automobile accident Saturday. Nickey Dean, 1445 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, was given first aid at the hospital Sunday for cuts and bruises and an injured back received in an auto crash.

No one was injured when cars registered to Tetsue Shigaki of Corona Del Mar and D. O. Rice, 601 South Parton street, were in collision at First and Main streets Saturday, according to reports.

Slight damage to two cars driven by Cornie John Vogelzange, R.F.D. No. 4, and A. Caron, 902 Logan street, occurred in a collision Sunday night in which no one was injured.

The Clipper was expected to spend only a short time at Honolulu before proceeding to Midway, a virtually uninhabited island 1385 miles northwest of Honolulu.

The current flight will mark the Clipper's first test on the Midway leg of the crossing. In April, the hop was not attempted because construction crews had not yet completed the airways' radio station nor made other preparation necessary before the flight could be undertaken.

Midway, objective of a recent mass flight of 48 U. S. navy planes stationed at Honolulu, is the second stop on the proposed trans-Pacific passenger and mail service, expected to be inaugurated possibly by the end of the summer.

Other bases are planned at Wake island, Guam, the Philippines, Hong Kong and Canton.

While it carried 10,000 parcels of mail on its first crossing, in addition to equipment needed at its island base, the clipper will be without cargo when it takes off today. Its sole contents will be hundreds of gallons of gasoline, expected to permit a flying range of 3200 miles and a few personal effects and provisions of the crew.

ADHERENCE TO CODES SOUGHT BY BUILDERS

The Orange County Builders Exchange today launched a movement seeking to join members of the construction and allied organizations into a plan to adhere to principles of NRA codes in spite of the fact that the NRA has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

Robert Hatfield, secretary-manager of the Exchange, was busy today preparing a resolution embodying the reasons why the Builders Exchange feels that the NRA codes should be adhered to during the present time.

Members of the Exchange board of directors are expected to act on the matter in the near future, and to draw more definite plans for accomplishing the end desired. Similar movements have been started in other sections of the county, it is reported, and have been successful.

Previously it has been reported that merchants in Santa Ana are favorable in the majority, to the principles of the NRA and are maintaining the same hours and wages for employees as under the NRA, waiting to see what the national situation will be.

GROUP VOICES OPPOSITION TO ZONING PLAN

LAGUNA BEACH, June 10.—Determined opposition to representations reported to have been made to the Orange county planning commission and to the board of supervisors to have the entire Coast boulevard south of the Laguna Beach city limits zoned for business, unless affected by deed restrictions, was voiced Saturday night at the regular monthly dinner meeting of the South Coast Improvement association held at Hotel Laguna. Capt. George A. Portus, president of the organization, presided.

Considerable concern was expressed over the concerted effort on the part of certain interests to throw the Coast boulevard open to business enterprises. In this connection, Captain Portus stated that members of the zoning committee are discouraged by the little interest shown by owners of residential property in the South Laguna district. It was brought out that at recent meetings of the planning commission, those opposed to zoning restrictions were well represented while on the other hand those favoring zoning were decidedly in the minority.

The last and final meeting on the zoning controversy, it was announced, has been set for next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the board room of the county supervisors. Coupled with this announcement, Captain Portus asked that not only every member of the association but every owner of residential property in the South Laguna section, take time off and make a point to be present at the meeting. Discussion of efforts being made by those opposed to zoning brought out that both the planning commission and the supervisors have been besieged with letters and telegrams protesting restricted zoning.

The association went on record as favoring a limited business zone located between First street and the Sea Shell cafe. Three Arches, which section, it was thought, was ample to house all necessary business enterprises for years to come. Eugene Swartzwald expressed the belief that restricted zoning would protect those now in business against additional competition, calling attention to the fact that the district has a limited purchasing power and can only support a certain number of stores.

Superintendent of School Linton T. Simmons explained the necessity for the $35,000 school bond issue to be voted on June 28. He called attention to the rapid growth of the school district, reflected in building and other activities, as well as influx of permanent home-seekers.

Included in the entertainment arranged for the occasion was the showing of a motion picture traveling by Arthur C. Peterson, local newspaper publisher.

Plans were discussed for the July meeting which will be held at San Juan Capistrano.

SOCIETY TO MEET
COSTA MESA, June 10.—Announcement was made today by Mrs. James Gallagher, member of the Missionary society of the Community church, that an all day meeting of the society will be held in the church social hall Tuesday, with a potluck luncheon preceding the afternoon's program. Each member is urged to be present and bring a friend.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By DAN THOMAS, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 10.—If he really is the big-hearted guy he pretends to be, Louis B. Mayer would have a scene written into one of the M-G-M films that would permit him to do a rumba for the enlightenment of the whole world. Terpsichorean talent such as his really shouldn't be confined to Hollywood audiences—who can witness it almost any night at the Trocadero. In fact, so anxious is Louis to swing into action that he refuses to let anything stop him. The other night he practically broke up a party at a star's home by asking half the guests (many of whom work for M-G-M and the guest of honor to leave early and go to the Troc with him.

Out of Character

News Flash: For the first time in history, Graeco Marx is to appear on the screen without his mustache. Yes, boys and girls, it's true. The famous comedian will go into "A Night at the Opera" without the familiar black paint on his upper lip. Incidentally, the title probably will be changed before the picture is finished. It's not Marx enough.

ART GROUP TO GET PROFITS FROM FESTIVAL

LAGUNA BEACH, June 10.—Assurances that every cent of net proceeds accruing from admissions at the Festival of Arts, which opens on June 29, after paying expenses and providing for a sinking fund, will be turned over to the Laguna Beach Art association for its building fund, were given local artists by Mrs. W. C. Venson, Forrest, member of the committee on arrangements of the festival association, at the regular monthly meeting of the art association held Saturday night at the galleries on Cliff Drive.

President George K. Brandriff presided over the meeting, which on the whole was devoted to discussion of participation in the festival event.

Scheduled to occupy a prominent place in the various exhibits, Mrs. Forrest will be the Laguna Beach Motion Picture Colony booth, erected under direction of Charles F. "Chuck" Riesner, well known M-G-M director and executive, who maintains a beach home here. The booth will display the gold statue received by Arthur Caesar, other motion picture celebrity, for his scenario, "Manhattan Melodrama." Caesar also maintains a summer home in Laguna.

Mrs. Forrest added that the Laguna Beach Community players are arranging for a unique exhibit on the festival grounds, showing the development of the little theatre movement in the art colony.

R. Frederick Heckman, director of the association, and also a director of the Festival of Arts association, reported that the Southern California Artists guild, composed of illustrators, commercial and advertising artists, are planning to visit Laguna on the afternoon of July 1.

Tonight's true story dramatization is that of an unsuspecting young girl who marries a daring and ruthless criminal. All too late, she discovers that her husband is engaged in lawlessness, although had he told her more of his activities his capture might never have been accomplished.

The innocent bride revealed evidence which showed her husband as "The Lone Wolf," a bandit whose daring daylight robberies had terrorized various cities up and down the coast.

Chief J. H. McCalland of the Long Beach police department, who was in charge of the investigation, will be heard in a brief talk at the opening of tonight's broadcast.

CARE IS REQUIRED

IT pays to exercise caution when working around the top of the battery, warns L. G. Evans, Director of Roadside Service of the National Automobile Club. The covers of the cells are made of an especially brittle material and are broken easily. In case one of these is broken, it should be replaced immediately. If this is not done, the first ride over a rough road may play havoc with the solution in the unit.

Dr. Wolf said that it has been estimated that about 75 per cent of all California native plants under cultivation for study and observation.

LOST SULPHUR SPRING FOUND AT SILVERADO

Rediscovery of a sulphur spring lost nearly two decades ago is refreshing the memories of pioneers in the Silverado Canyon district. Tales of the days when Silverado canyon, then called Canada de la Madera, was the goal of silver miners, when bears and mountain lions disputed the first settlers' right to the territory and stories of how the prospectors made tortuous wagon trips over precipitous trails to reach the noted springs are being revived.

Lacking modern medicine, the pioneers depended upon the medicinal waters for treatment of numerous ailments, according to the stories told.

One-time location of a crude bath house, the spring will be rehabilitated by its finder, William Miller of Rome's Shadybrook. Miller on locating the sulphur bearing waters dispatched a sample to a firm of Los Angeles chemists and engineers, asking for a complete analysis.

In reply the firm backed up the beliefs of the pioneers by asserting that "because of a high mineral content the waters would be beneficial in many cases as medicine." The report continued "the water would be excellent for bathing because of the relatively large amount of sodium sulphate (glauber salts) and sodium bicarbonate (baking soda) as well as its content of hydrogen gas."

Coupled with renewed mining activity, the creation of a health resort at the sulphur springs, is greeted by residents of the district as first signs of returning prosperity. Canyon dwellers are reported as building and enlarging their properties in anticipation of the hoped for resort crowds.

Martin Says Pilots Must Study Today

Aviation in the United States is progressing so fast, that air pilots who fly the mail and who are connected with the big passenger lines are forced to spend much of their time in study in order to keep their positions, according to Johnnie Martin, ace pilot with the American Airlines, who is in Santa Ana for the next two weeks on his vacation.

"When Eddie and I used to hunt coyotes from an old plane down at the airport, and when we tried shooting ducks from the plane years ago, we were doing it just for fun, and we didn't realize then that aviation would become such a technical proposition," said Martin today.

"Today, they keep me busy taking examinations, passing tests of all kinds and unless we pilots keep ourselves informed almost every day of the new things that are coming into aviation, believe me, our jobs wouldn't last 30 days," he said.

Martin, younger brother of Eddie Martin, who operates the Eddie Martin airport here, and who is now pilot for a privately owned plane, has been with the American Airlines for the past seven years, flying the mail and passengers between Glendale and El Paso, one of the "toughest" routes between here and the east. He has had more than 3000 hours in the air, and there are few pilots in the country with more hours—none with a better flying record.

Martin declared that pilots today are allowed to work only 80 flying hours per month and that a rigid physical examination must be successfully passed every 45 days.

He owns a 30-acre orange grove five miles west of Santa Ana at Hill and Newport road, where he is spending his vacation. His parents live on another orange ranch, adjacent to the airport.

TO ENTERTAIN ROTARIANS AT LAGUNA BEACH

With committees of local members meeting from day to day, the Laguna Beach Rotary club is completing arrangements for entertaining anywhere from 700 to 1000 Southern Rotarians and their wives at a barbecue dinner and preview show of the Laguna Beach Festival of Arts, to be held Friday evening, June 28.

Serving on the committee on arrangements are Arthur C. Peterson, newly elected president of the local club; Dr. Vincent Carroll, Capt. Don Wilkie, the Rev. Raymond L. Brahms and Joe Jahraus. It was announced. Co-operating with the local committee is a special committee of the Orange county council of Rotary clubs, appointed by Frank D. Hevener, of Laguna Beach, president of the council.

Following the outdoor barbecue dinner on the festival grounds at Heister Point, the visiting Rotarians and their wives, drawn from the membership of some 60 Southern California clubs, will attend an elaborate entertainment.

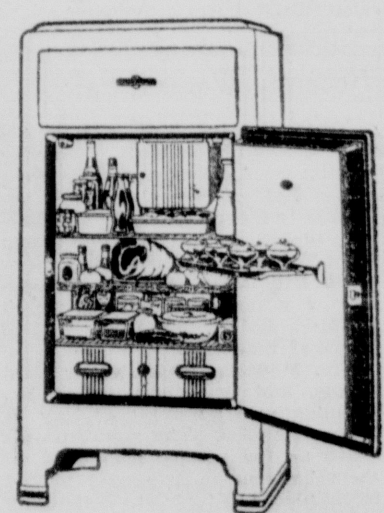

The guests also will be given a pre-view of the major as well as the individual 50 artist exhibits, presided over by prominent society women and debutante assistants.

The formal opening of the feast, which in elaborate arrangements and quality program of entertainment promises to eclipse all previous festivals, has been set for Saturday, June 22.

There Are Some Things We Refuse to Do to Sell MERCHANDISE

We like sales, but fair dealing and the confidence of our customers are desirable, too.

We refuse to poison any one's mind against other merchandise. We know what Westinghouse is, what it will do, and we are anxious to tell you about that. But to imply defects in other refrigerators is not our business.

We shall do our utmost to encourage intelligent buying of refrigerators by showing purchasers how to protect their own interests. All that we ask is a customer who knows quality when he sees it. An intelligent purchaser will soon realize that only a bad product requires bad sales methods.

We refuse to keep dinning in your ears that Westinghouse is the best, the most economical, the most reliable refrigerator. That is claimed for several refrigerators. There comes a time where superlatives, adjectives and all similar hysteria disappear in their own fog.

We prefer facts.

We say that the present Westinghouse refrigerator is the best refrigerator the company has ever made.

We say that the Westinghouse is as economical to operate over a period of years as any refrigerator.

We say that Westinghouse has always been known as the maker of quality equipment, and that the Westinghouse name alone is a guarantee of engineering skill and experience.

We are representing Westinghouse because the same principles and ideals that have placed the name where it is, fit into our own conception of electrical merchandising.

The loyal support and good will we have received in Orange County lead us to believe that others, too, are in sympathy with our standards.

Gibbs-Hatch Wedding Takes Place in Fullerton

Two hundred guests assembled Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Fullerton First Baptist church for the wedding of a Santa Ana couple, Miss Leora Louise Hatch, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hatch, 920 South Ross street and William H. Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Gibbs, 2405 Bonnie Brae.

The Rev. F. E. Hawes, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony at 4 o'clock. White tapers at the altar were lighted by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Hollis Gibbs, dressed in green organdy. A trellis wound with ivy and flowers had been arranged at the altar. The garden effect trickling to the garden effect furthered a yellow theme evident in other details of the wedding.

Roy Barnes of Los Angeles sang "Because" and "Oh Promise Me." Miss Eleanor Tate of Fullerton, who accompanied at the organ, playing Lohengrin's Wedding March and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as processional and recessional.

Dr. Hatch gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white satin gown with a finger tip veil whose folds were held in place with a wreath of tiny gardenias and clusters of orange and blue forget-me-nots and lilies of the valley showered from her bouquet of gardenias. As the "something old" she wore the gold filigree circlet which had been the wedding ring of her grandmother, Mrs. P. P. Willey of Salt Lake City.

Miss Dorothy Hatch, honor maid for her sister, was gown in blue silk net with a matching turban worn with a short veil. She carried a muff of yellow rosebuds. The three bridesmaids, the Misses Elaine Hatch, Betty Dunton of Santa Ana and Florence Campbell of Orange, wore yellow silk net frocks with picture hats, and carried shower bouquets of blue delphiniums. Lloyd Gibbs was best man for his brother, wearing a white Palm Beach suit with blue tie.

The ushers, Carl Lamb, El Monte; Louie Denninger, Los Angeles and Minor Whitford, Santa Ana, also wore white Palm Beach suits with yellow ties to match the bridesmaids' frocks.

Mrs. Hatch wore yellow crepe with white accessories. Mrs. Gibbs was in grey and blue. Both had corsage bouquets of white gardenias and yellow sweet peas. The new Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs left for the north, the bride wearing a white wool suit with pink accessories. On their return, the young people will establish their home in Fullerton. The bridegroom is employed in Los Angeles with the Denninger garment company.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs attended Santa Ana High school, the former completing his education at Woodbury Business college in Los Angeles. Mrs. Gibbs attended the local Junior college, where she was a member of the Sisterhood of Associated Students and was a member of Beta Gamma.

Surprise Party Awaits Homecoming of Recently Wedded Pair

When Mr. and Mrs. Marion Allen Manning arrived yesterday evening at the home of Mrs. Manning's mother, Mrs. E. A. Reid, on Collins avenue, Orange, concluding their long day's drive from Lake Tahoe as part of their honeymoon trip, they received welcome from a group of friends, gathered at Mrs. Reid's invitation for an informal reception.

Mrs. Manning was Eleanor Reid Hogue, and her marriage to Mr. Manning was an event of May 31 in Los Angeles. The young people drove as far north as Tacoma on their honeymoon trip, and visited many places of interest. Their early plans to make the trip by plane were changed, although Mr. Manning is a licensed pilot. He is with the steel plant in Maywood where he and Mrs. Manning will be at home to their friends after July 1.

The honeymooners were greeted with a shower of rice when they reached home about 6 o'clock. Mrs. Reid had planned an alfresco supper prepared over the grill which is a feature of the spacious garden with its tables, deep swings and garden furniture. Mrs. Manning was called upon to cut the cakes of the final course, since the wedding had been of such simplicity that she was denied the privilege at that time of cutting her bride's cake.

After several exciting croquet games on the gravelled court, all gathered in the living room, while the bride opened the many packages placed on a big table. The shower gifts were of kitchen equipment.

Among those asked to share with Mrs. Reid and with the bride's small son, Master Douglas Hogue, this pleasant "welcome home" were the former's mother and sister, Mrs. M. E. Ritchey and Miss Martha Ritchey. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reuter and daughter and son, Josephine and Ernest Reuter of Santa Ana; Mr. Manning's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lovely Floral Setting Given Tustin Church For Wedding Rites

In the presence of more than 250 relatives and friends, Miss Josephine Martin, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Martin of Hemet, became the bride of Elmer Farnsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Farnsworth of Newport Road, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Tustin First Presbyterian church.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Calvin A. Duncan, pastor of the church. The altar was given a beautiful arrangement of Matilija poppies, Easter lilies, gladioluses, palms and ferns. Ivory tapers in wrought-iron candelabra added to the beauty of the setting which had been arranged by Dr. and Mrs. Chester A. Day.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was very charming in her long white satin gown, with a full veil fastened to her hair with orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses and fern.

Miss Marjorie Griset, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Griset, served her cousin as maid of honor. She was attractive in a long gown of pink organza and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Martin, mother of the bride, wore powder blue silk crepe and Mrs. Farnsworth, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a dusty pink silk ensemble. Both flower corsages.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Marjorie Rawlings of Lemon Heights, sang "Beloved, It is Morn" and "I Love You Truly," with Mrs. R. E. Carswell at the organ. Co-hostesses Receive Party Guests in Charming Summer Home

Planning a bridge luncheon and gift shower as a courtesy to Miss Berthena Selway, fiancée of Percé Page of Los Angeles, Mrs. Boyd F. Munger and Mrs. Lynn H. Crawford were privileged to entertain Saturday in the delightful summer home on the ocean front at Balboa, of the Gilbert Kraemers of Placentia.

Table flowers for the luncheon hour were pink larkspur and blue cornflower with a touch of pale mauve scabiosa. These with snapdragons and vari-colored larkspur, brought the entire floral design in harmony with the attractive draperies and fittings of the summer home. All the flowers, including sprays of feathery maidenhair, were grown in the gardens of the two hostesses.

Mrs. Frances Wight scored high and Mrs. Donald Hillyard second high in the contract session that followed, receiving prizes of pottery in ivory white. The guest prize presented by the hostesses to Miss Selway was in the same graceful Franciscan pottery in turquoise blue.

Through a pleasant coincidence, many of the gifts which were presented the bride-elect in the succeeding interval, were in this same attractive ware in the ivory and turquoise tones. Other gifts were in linen, silver and crystal. The gifts were presented to Selway by tiny Miss Marcia Lee Munger, daughter of Mrs. Boyd Munger. Marcia Lee wore a bouffant organza frock in the same sunny yellow as her curls.

Miss Selway, daughter of Mrs. H. J. Selway, 1015 North Broadway, and the late H. J. Selway, has named June 28 for her wedding to Mr. Page. The intervening weeks promise to be filled with gay and exciting events planned in her honor.

At Saturday's party Mrs. Munger and Mrs. Crawford had on their guest list with their honoree, Miss Selway, and her mother, Mrs. Selway, Mesdames Emrys D. White, Milan Miller, Francis Wright, Sheldon Russell, Donald Hillyard, Ralph Livenspire, R. Carson Smith, the Misses Frances Egge, Grace Robertson, Tessie Childers, Jean Goodwin, Willa Fosher, Leta Blythe, Mary Safley and Bernice Boyd, Santa Ana; Miss Carolyn White, Redlands; Miss Alline Spear, Mrs. Raymond Smith, Los Angeles; Mrs. Rudolph Richards, Pomona; Mrs. Fred Dodge, San Marino; Mrs. Clarence McFadden, San Juan Capistrano; Mrs. Chester Stafford, Hollywood.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM
Breakfast

1-2 cup strawberries with 1 teaspoon powdered sugar
1 poached egg on 1 thin slice of toast
1 teaspoon butter for toast
1 cup of coffee with 1-4 cup hot skimmed milk, no sugar.

Calory total, 285.

The lot of the average housewife would be hard were it not for the humor furnished by the family's oddities in food, and the fun it is to put something over on them. Here's a salad in our house a lettuce salad with a hot creamy bacon dressing is served quite often. When served, as is, half the salads will just be nibbled at, so I turned the tables on the nibblers by lining their salad plates with the crispest little yellow lettuce hearts, holding the usual serving of wilted lettuce. The crisp garnish sold them on the goodness of the homely salad, and that was that!

Early morning should see much of the dinner preparation out of the way. So many of us leave the preparation of lettuce, etc., for the last minute when it could just as well be done in the morning. Separate the heads of lettuce, rinse under cold water and put the loose lettuce in a small cotton bag (loosely). Chill in refrigerator until you are ready to build the dinner salads.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Toasted Cheese Sandwiches, Spanish Style
14 thin slices white bread
1-2 pound bacon, cooked
6 cheese slices to fit bread
Cook together—
1 bunch green onions, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
1 No. 2 1/2 can tomato puree
1 large green pepper, chopped
1 celery heart, chopped
1 tablespoon flour to thicken sauce
Salt, pepper, and cayenne to taste.

The sauce is the familiar Spanish filling used in making omelettes, get it ready first: Combine onions, green pepper and celery and run them through the food grinder. Simmer in butter until fairly soft, add the strained tomato, season and simmer for ten minutes longer, then thicken slightly. While the sauce is simmering along toast the bread, fry the bacon and make bacon sandwiches. Arrange

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

THE TINYTIMES

The gnomes bowed for a little while and then fair Dotty, with a smile, said, "Gee, I'm getting used to all the noise you men make, now."

"In fact, I think I'd like to bowl. Give me a ball and let me roll it down toward the pins. I've watched you men, so I know how."

"A good idea," Goldeny cried, as she ran up to Dotty's side. "I, too, will have a try at it. We'll probably make you roar."

"Hey, Coppy, set the pins up straight, then stand a safe ways back and wait. We may try once, and then not want to try it any more."

The two girls had a lot of fun, but shortly Goldeny said, "I've done all of the bowling that I care to. Gee, my arm is stiff."

"Where's Duncy? Let him bowl a bit. Say, I'll just bet that he can't hit a single pin, although he'll try to give them a bluff."

"Why, Duncy is nowhere in sight," said Scouty. "I hope he's all right." A voice then cried, "Don't fret about me. I've just been roaming 'round."

"Twas Duncy. Then he joined the bunch, and said, 'I had a happy hunch that I'd find something thrilling. Now, just guess what I have found.'"

The whole bunch tried to guess, but they were wrong. Then they heard Duncy say, "I found a keg of rootbeer underneath a great big tree."

"Some acorn cups is what we need. Come on, you tots, and show some speed. I'm going to have a dandy drink. Who's game to join with me?"

"I am," cried Scouty. "Find a stick. We'll ram the bung out mighty quick. And, look, here is a mallet. That will help us with our task."

"Now, Duncy, swing the mallet, and I'll hold the long stick in my hand. Be sure and hit the stick, instead of me. That's all I ask."

OFFICIALS ON 'CHUTE JUMPER AIR TRIP TO GETS THRILL AS MEXICAN STATE HEEL CATCHES

Sheriff Logan Jackson and Deputy James Workman spent an interesting day Sunday as participants in the official visit of the aero squadron of Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz of Los Angeles to officials at San Diego and Agua Caliente, participated in by 16 official airships.

Jackson was a guest of Sheriff Biscailuz in a tri-motored Ford plane piloted by Keith Scott, and in which other guests were Sheriff Howard Burley of Ventura and Consul Terrazas of the Mexican government and wife. Workman was a guest in the Department of Commerce ship piloted by Inspector Huse Duckworth.

At Agua Caliente, the party was greeted by the governor of Lower California and his staff and other high ranking Mexican officials. On the party's return to Lindbergh field, San Diego, the officers were guests of Sheriff Dort of San Diego county on a visit to the exposition and luncheon.

On the return trip, Jackson alighted at the Eddie Martin airport while Workman returned to the Grand Central Airport to return the local officers' car.

As the Department of Commerce ship approached Santa Ana, Pilot Duckworth, it is reported, saw another plane flying illegally below him in close proximity to a passenger train, and upon following the offending ship to a landing at the Eddie Martin airport, Duckworth issued a citation to C. A. Jackson, charging violation of Department of Commerce flying rules.

EXPECT STATE LEGISLATURE TO PASS BILL

Conditions in the state assembly today appeared to be favorable for passage of the Orange County Water District Act amendment in spite of opposition from San Bernardino county interests, according to word received here today from C. Roy Browning, director in the water district who is in Sacramento supporting the measure on behalf of the water district.

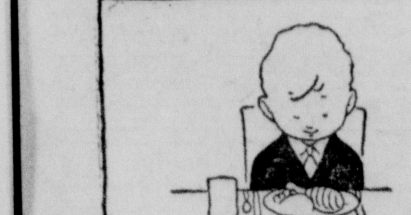

A telephone call was received from Browning today, saying that it appeared that the measure would come out of the assembly with a favorable vote. Action on the measure, however, was not expected until this afternoon.

The state senate already has approved the amendment to the water act, which is before the state assembly today. San Bernardino interests, as has been reported in The Register, are opposing the measure because they fear it will be inimical to their interests.

Legionnaires To Elect Delegates To State Session

The Santa Ana American Legion will elect delegates to the annual department convention, to be held in Fresno during August at the meeting of the post to be held Thursday night, it was announced today by Commander Bert Castejo.

On June 14, Flag day, Legion members will attend the annual flag day exercises held by the Santa Ana B.P.O. Elks lodge, at 8 o'clock, it was announced. The post will bend every effort between now and next Saturday toward reaching their quota in the current membership drive, which will close on that date. Fifty new members are needed by the local post in order to reach its quota.

Sons of the Legion will meet next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the Legion hall, it was announced. Troy Colbeck, world's champion parachute jumper, was scheduled to beat Washburn to the ground, making a delayed jump after Washburn had left the plane. Washburn, instead, landed first because of the time taken before his chute opened. Washburn bailed out at 2000 feet from Floyd Wright's cabin ship.

More than 200 persons were at the Martin Airport yesterday afternoon to watch the event and other air events, featuring Jim Cheney in thrilling acrobatic flying.

Airport officials credited The Register, which printed an advance story of the event, with bringing out the large crowd yesterday. Previously, when The Register printed no notice, the crowd was so small the event was called off.

Mayor Fred Rowland today added his support to plans for the observance of "Railroad Week" from June 10 to 15. In cities throughout California, Arizona and New Mexico, mayors have issued proclamations officially sanctioning the movement.

"Railroad Week" is being sponsored by the western railroads to focus attention upon their general importance in the nation's transportation system, and the remarkable progress they have made during the past few years. Particular stress is being placed upon recent improvements in service to the public.

"During the recent depression, the western railroads maintained their rights of way and other property in good condition, and are now showing the way to economic recovery by shortening schedules wherever possible, improving their equipment and making every effort to cooperate with the public in modernizing the movement of passengers and freight," announcement of the week's observance says.

"These railroads offer the finest transportation in the world at the lowest cost. They have air-conditioned their principal passenger trains at a cost, since last fall, of approximately $19,000,000 much of which was spent for labor. They have reduced basic fares and sleeping car charges, and for the summer vacation season they offer special low round-trip fares, all expense tours and other travel bargains.

"The blowing of every locomotive whistle in the western half of the United States signalled the opening of 'Railroad Week' at 8 o'clock this morning. Then will come a series of events including visits to railway shops, stations and other places of interest. School still in session will present railroad programs, and in many cities chambers of commerce and civic clubs will hold special meetings honoring the 'iron horse'."

President Roosevelt raised it two days after the supreme court held national recovery administration codes "their wages and hours provisions unconstitutional." Mr. Roosevelt said he deplored the so-called "opie to decide whether they wanted a 'hor' and buggy constitution or an amended document to give the federal government in national, social and economic problems an authority which would validate new deal recovery experiments.

Announcement of Lowden's choice as keynote speaker coincided last week with a meeting at which he discussed Republican problems with former President Hoover. The former governor sought the Republican presidential nomination in 1920 and 1924 and in 1924 refused to accept second place on the ticket with President Coolidge. Lowden's two "vacies were based largely on farm relief but his keynote speech today concentrated on the constitution.

So it was that as Katharine's car drove out of the driveway of the Bath Club, Sally's drove in. Michael saw Katharine. He caught a glimpse of Dr. Kaye beside her, his thin, aristocratic face sharply cut above the black and white of his dinner clothes. Sally, driving rather intently, did not see them. "Here we are," she cried gaily, jumping out.

"Michael, well let the man park," she said.

"I shall we? I don't know exactly where..."

"The doorman was not in sight. A waiter, looking rather wild-eyed, ran to the door, inspected them and ran back again. "Isn't he queer?" Sally marvelled.

Michael pushed open the big, grilled door and went in. The marble-floored hall was empty. A hat check girl appeared from where. She, too, looked rather disheveled. She viewed the newcomers with something like suspicion.

"Will someone find me a table, please?" Sally demanded with hauteur, "Miss Moon!"

There was a doorman, after all. He came on the run.

"What goes on here, anyhow?" Sally wanted to know.

The doorman looked blank. It was, she knew, one of the best things doorman did. But Sally was curious. There was about the place a curious air of tenseness. The few groups of people at the tables around the pool, to which they were presently escorted, seemed excited about something.

The captain of waiters eyed Michael with suspicion, but purred when he heard Sally's name. It was well, the employees of the Bath Club had been told, "stand in" with the local friends. Joseph Moon was a prominent local figure. He ran the bank; he was a village trustee; he bossed the school board.

"This isn't so much," observed Sally in a dissatisfied tone, Michael grinned.

"What did you expect? People hanging from the walls?" She giggled. "I thought it would be more exciting."

"Oh well, it's easy for this kind of place," Michael told her. "Most of the people who come here are still catching a little shut-eye. It won't wake up, really, till midnight."

"Michael!" burst Sally. "How do you know all these things? I mean you're from the woolly west and all that, and yet sometimes you talk so—so like a man of the world."

"His eyes darkened subtly. "Oh, I've been around."

"You're a man of mystery," cried Sally, widening her eyes. "That's what you are. I know you ran a ranch—dude ranch, wasn't it?—out in Montana. Your partner cheated you and you came down here with what was left."

"Oh, he did?" murmured Michael. "You know a lot, don't you?"

"I've been around," Michael said.

"You're a man of mystery," cried Sally, widening her eyes.

GRASS ROOTS CONCLAVE IS OPENED TODAY

Thirty were present yesterday afternoon when members of the February, 1910, graduating class of the Santa Ana High school held a reunion at the home of E. T. McFadden, 2121 Greenleaf street.

Class members present included: Almes Bourdieu, Los Angeles; Marie Harding Thurston, Laguna Beach; Louise Grouard Long, Santa Ana; Hugh Keech, Moon Beach; Mildred Mansur, Huntington Park; Nellie Hill Lohmeyer, Hemet, Ore.; E. T. McFadden, Santa Ana; Nell Marie Remsburg, Pasadena, and Ben W. Retland, Los Angeles.

Among those present were four former teachers of the class, H. O. Egan, Hemet; Miss Anna Fowler, Los Angeles; Miss Elizabeth Wyatt and Sedalia Cubbison, of Santa Ana.

Miss Cubbison started teaching at the Santa Ana High school in 1898, and was advisor to the class of 1910 for a half year. Miss Fowler, who now teaches at Manual Arts High school, in Los Angeles, was their advisor for the next two and a half years. Egan, who was their advisor for one year, was a teacher of physics and chemistry, and now is a rancher. All the others were teachers of English, including Miss Wyant, who is now in her twenty-fifth year of teaching at the Santa Ana High school.

The former teachers as well as each member of the class present gave an informal talk relating to the happenings experienced by each since the date of their graduation. Their commencement and class play programs were read, and many memories of high school days were refreshed. Refreshments were served following an evening of reminiscing.

Orange county residents formerly had to go directly to HOLC headquarters in Los Angeles to apply for their loans. Storey explained, often having to make as many as three or four trips before they finished the preliminaries of the transaction.

"The loan situation and the general situation is improving so rapidly," Storey said today, "that we expect the organization will have served its entire purpose by June 27." The HOLC has loaned more than $3,000,000 to home owners in Orange county at the present time.

Downing's appointment was on his desk Saturday morning, but as he was out of town and did not return until today, he did not know of the appointment until this morning.

He will serve with the law firm of West and McKinney as "foreclosure attorneys" for HOLC, and the two firms will handle all foreclosures cases under the corporation in this district. The two firms are among a few in the state so appointed for the corporation, which has loaned approximately $3,000,000 in Orange county.

Speaking before representatives of 10 farm states, the former Illinois governor and farm leader said recent events have given the Republican party "its great opportunity since the Civil war."

"I measure my words," he continued, "when I say that no crisis so grave as the present has confronted the American people since that unhappy conflict."

"For now, as then, the essentials of our form of government are being challenged in high places. The very cornerstone of our government is the division of power between the states and the central government. It is now proposed to strike down once and for all that great principle."

"This is to be accomplished by an amendment to the constitution. It is sought in this way to acquire power that was denied by the supreme court in the Schechter (NRA) decision."

Woman Attempts To End Life After Drinking Party

Mrs. Margaret Baker, 23, of 701 East Central, Newport Beach, was recovering today from the effects of swallowing a bottle of iodine last night in a suicide attempt at her home.

She took the poison following a family argument which grew out of a drinking party in which she, her husband, R. D. Baker, and Jack Landrum, all of Newport Beach, participated yesterday and last night.

Antidotes were administered by the two men, and Mrs. Baker was taken to the home of Dr. Conrad Richter, Newport Beach physician, who treated her. He pronounced her out of danger this morning, and allowed her to be taken to her home.

Only the fact that the act was done as the result of an argument was advanced as an explanation, Newport police said.

Miss Barbara Rowell will take over the position of editor-in-chief of the "Echo" Willard Junior High school paper, next semester, filling the place vacated by Ruth Baker, it was announced today. Other staff appointments are as follows:

The staff of the "Echo" recently held their bi-annual outing in the form of a picnic at Irvine park. Mothers acting as chaperones were Mrs. L. E. Tarbox and Mrs. Ida M. Timmons. Guests included Margaret Schmitz, Bob English, Tom Engleman, Gloria Pestoles, Kenny Warren, Ed Budd, Wally Grigg, Marion Timmons, Wilmer Lee, Dorothy Davis, Ruth Lockett and Ben Bles.

Staff members present were Loraine Tarbox, Ruth Baker, Dorothy Hedley, Naomi Knipe, Elaine Jost, Rhoda Timmons, Iva Walters, Marion Borchard, Allan Hollingsworth, Robert Scott, David Geddes, John Henderson, Frank Ramirez and Vera Jacobs, advisor.

Alfred E. Storey, HOLC official from Los Angeles, will be in Santa Ana until June 27 to accept applications from home owners for loans under the provisions of the Home Owners Loan corporation. It was announced today. June 27 is the closing date for application to be filed.

Storey's office will be in the abstract and Title Insurance company, at 416 North Main street. His purpose will be to explain the provisions of the loan act, and to assist persons desirous of making a loan in filling out the application.

Orange county residents formerly had to go directly to HOLC headquarters in Los Angeles to apply for their loans. Storey explained, often having to make as many as three or four trips before they finished the preliminaries of the transaction.

SOCIETY

Two Days in Succession Devoted to Gracious Entertaining

Two successive days at the close of the week had been set aside by Mrs. Charles Spicer for a duo of charmingly intimate bridge luncheons which found setting in her home, 2348 North Park boulevard.

On Friday, Mrs. Spicer received the first of her group of guests, assembling them for luncheon at 1 o'clock at a table beautifully arranged with Italian embroidered linen and lace, and crystal luncheon service. That delicate jargon of the tapestry in their crystal canisters, and for the flowers which graced a crystal bowl in the table center.

The variety of lovely blossoms arranged in the living room where card tables were awaiting, were brought into definite harmony with luncheon appointments by the lavish use of mauve and deep purple Canterbury bells sent by Mrs. E. B. Sprague from her own garden.

Identically the same color scheme was employed Saturday when Mrs. Spicer received her second group of guests. Contract was played both afternoons, prizes going to Mesdames Walter D. Ranney, F. W. Slabaugh, William H. Spurgeon, John Wehrly, John Lucian Wehrly, Joseph H. Metzger, Adam Zaiser and J. L. McBride.

In the two days of hospitality, Mrs. Spicer received Mesdames Arthur Lyon, Walter D. Ranney, Lewis Moulton, F. W. Slabaugh, John Wehrly, F. Frank Burke, Leyland K. King, E. T. McFadden, William H. Spurgeon, Clyde Walker, W. B. Williams, F. E. Farnsworth, H. B. Hill, J. E. White, John Lucian Wehrly, Samuel W. Nau, E. B. Sprague, Joseph H. Metzger, C. P. Dorcas Choral Club Closes Activities With Tea

Bringing to a close their activities for the season, members of the Methodist Dorcas Choral Club entertained last week with an afternoon tea and program in the church social hall. The club will resume its work in September, with Halstead McCormack continuing as director.

Mrs. Alice Daughters was chairman of the table committee; Mrs. Georgie Lewis, flowers. Tea was poured by Mesdames B. H. Sharpless and J. W. McCormack. Miss Mary Lamb was chairman of the cake committee.

Mrs. Catherine Fox was chairman of the program which included: "The Spirit of the Lord," by Mrs. Eva Ramsey; vocal solos, "The Spirit of the Lord," and "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Cecil Froese Willis, accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong; cello solos, including an original number and "Hawaiian Lullaby," Miss Anna Marie Archer accompanied by Miss Audrey Pieper.

Mrs. Thelma Hein, new president of the club, was introduced. The club's program for next year will include concerts and radio broadcasts.

Houseguest Inspires Afternoon Event

Mrs. B. L. Halderman was hostess at a luncheon Friday in her home on West Seventeenth street. She complimented her houseguest, Mrs. Charles I. Turner of Heaton, N. D., who today concluded a week's visit in the home.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO FIGHT FOR OURSELVES

Underneath what seems to be a perfectly placid surface, there is turmoil and struggle to get possession of the 350 million barrels of oil in the reservoir at Huntington Beach.

Various oil companies want exclusive pipe lines into it, and each wants to get it for as little an amount as he can give the state or city or country or all together, as the case may be, and get away with it.

By some process or other, public officials and other individuals are linked up with these oil companies, and some of them seem to be more interested in the oil companies than they are in the public welfare.

The people who should be interested in this oil are the citizens and taxpayers of Orange county. If they were sufficiently interested and united, a plan unquestionably could be worked out, whereby the public benefit which would accrue from this oil, would go far to either putting Orange county and Huntington Beach in the tax-free list. Or at least it would enable them to get such large revenue from this oil, which belongs to the people, as to carry out some big enterprises, as well as to reduce taxes.

It is known now to most people that this "Save-The-Beach" slogan was the merest hoax and subterfuge, to defeat the people's plan and install the interests of a big oil company.

It is also known that the pollution of the beaches does not follow where the drilling is conducted in a workmanlike manner and adequate care is exercised in the piping afterwards. In fact there is oil now being taken from the sea near Santa Barbara, under the same conditions as would prevail in Huntington Beach, if it were permitted, and there is no sign of pollution of the beach.

Oil men, who are well informed, simply grin when the suggestion is made that beaches would be ruined by the drilling of oil wells off the shore-line.

They know what use was made of this battle-cry and they know how false is the foundation for such charge.

It is only the unsophisticated public which is fooled by it.

Various groups in Orange county are interesting themselves now, however, on behalf of getting some interest in this oil for the county. Supervisor N. E. West asked for help from the board of supervisors and we cannot help believing that the majority of the board is really anxious that the county's interests be protected.

But, some way or other, when office-holders and politicians, of the kind who are anxious to join in with the exploiters and at the same time get credit for being with the people, are faced with the facts, they use another slogan: "I'm for it, but you can't get it through the legislature."

And this, "You can't do it" phrase seems to be the one to which some of our officials are listening, if not using. This phrase, "You can't do it," means, when interpreted, that the one who uses it doesn't want to make a fight for it, or else he is deceived by the one who doesn't want to make a fight for it.

Anything that is of sufficient importance and meritorious has a chance for passage before any group of "square" men who have authority. And if they aren't "square" men, the fight for its enactment is worth while to classify the "straight fellows" and the "crooked" ones.

We lament that there aren't more such fights in the open. The consequence is that the "crooked" and the "straight" are elected together, and the "straight" joining in with the "crooked" ones, either by their silence, or by being deceived, act just like the other "fellows."

We hope the board of supervisors will go on record in giving their support to any and every effort which would mean a larger proportion of the money returned from this oil to the public, county, state or city.

If it were a private individual or group which had the same rights to this oil field that the public has; if it weren't operated by such group or individual, certainly it would be leased only to the company that would give the largest amount of royalty for it. It would not be submitted and undertaken by the ones, without bids, that probably would give the least.

We hope that the governor will aid in protecting the interests of the people.

CHANGING THE CONSTITUTION AND DEMOCRACY

The Republicans are having a rally just now at Springfield, Illinois.

With the picture of Abraham Lincoln looking down upon the group, they have met ostensibly to protest on behalf of the "grass-root" farmers, against the "betrayal of the interests of the people" by the President of the United States.

Especially do they emphasize today the role, in which now they desire to present themselves to the nation, as the conspicuous defenders of "state rights" as against federal control.

This is the attitude which has always been taken by the Democrats. If Lincoln were alive today, we can imagine with what a smile he would retell the story of the two men who were fighting one another and only succeeded in each fighting himself into the other man's coat.

We can imagine no "yarn" that ever came from the "Great Commoner" more apropos to the occasion. The demagogues are endeavoring to mislead the people into believing that the President has made an assault upon the constitution, or that he desires to break it down.

And the same ones charge him with "lese majesty," claiming he assaulted the nine "good judges and true" who compose our national judicial group. Not at all! Intelligent men know that there are some members of the supreme court who are as anxious, if not more so than the President, to achieve the ends desired by the President.

And the only way that these ends can be achieved, the Supreme court would agree with the President, is to change the constitution.

This is not an assault upon the constitution—it is making the constitution what it was designed to be—a continuous guarantee of rights and justice. The prohibition of child labor, the minimum wage and reasonable national planning can only come through a constitution modified to that end.

Those who are participating in this convention, and other similar meetings following, will soon expose the stupid and ridiculous position they have assumed. This will be apparent when the farmers, with their Agricultural Adjustment act in the discard by court decision; the wage earners and the smaller business men of the country, ruined by fierce competition in commercial, industrial and labor strife, because of the illegality of the NIRA; will all be joining in a demand for such an adjustment of our constitution, so as to give the privilege of protection of insurance and direction to our federal government.

In this, we have no doubt that a majority of the United States Supreme court will be in hearty agreement.

Has the constitution been injured by the adoption of the various amendments?

Did it ruin our constitution by guaranteeing the Negro his freedom?

Did it destroy it by making him a citizen?

Did it break down constitutional government when they amended that great instrument to permit an income tax to be levied?

Did it destroy the constitution and end constitutional government when we made it possible for our mothers and wives and sisters to exercise the right of suffrage of citizens?

No! And the change in the constitution, so that rights can be protected and wrongs can be remedied, is insuring that the constitution shall be a continuing document for the preservation and the working out of democracy.

One of the most sacred and sane things about our constitution is that there are provisions made for the adoption of amendments, so that through democracy and not through violence, changes can be made to harmonize our government with the changing social and economic conditions of our daily life.

DOES THIS APPLY TO YOU?

In every savings bank of the country there is money which has apparently been forgotten. A New York savings bank, after an existence of 87 years, has begun to round up those who have forgotten their savings.

It was found, for example, that one man had a dormant account for over 20 years, and his office was in the same building occupied by the bank. He had forgotten all about it.

Two bank presidents had to be reminded that they had money in that bank, which they had entirely forgotten. One man denied that he had ever put a cent into that bank. Yet it was clearly shown that he had deposited $175 on a given date, and when his book was balanced he found himself the possessor of $335.93.

No doubt every bank can tell the same story. It is one of the strangest things that men forget about such matters.

Most of us are near enough to the headline to make us very conscious of the little balance in the bank. Yet this forgetfulness is not confined to the well-to-do.

People have been suddenly called away to other parts. They have gathered up all their belongings, but have forgotten a little bank account.

There are those who have died, and their bankbooks have not been found. There are those who have been committed to an institution, and their bankbooks have been mislaid.

Some have been lost in moving. Some have been burned in fires. And so it goes.

This forgetfulness is some embarrassment to the banks. They cannot dispose of it. They have to keep an account of it. Altogether, it is rendering banks a great service if all depositors keep in touch with their banks.

Estimating Revenues

New York Times

There can be no difference of opinion on the question whether a Government's official estimates of revenue ought to correspond closely with the revenue itself. In this respect the British record is astonishingly accurate, while our own is hardly one to be proud of. The National Industrial Conference Board has prepared a comparison for the last ten years of the differences between the budget estimates and the actual receipts from internal revenue taxes of the British and American Governments. The years compared below are fiscal years, which in Great Britain end on March 31 and in the United States on June 30. The figures in the column under the name of each country represent the excess (+) or deficit (—) of actual as compared with estimated receipts for those years:

Year	Great United	Britain States
1925	+ 1.6	+ 5.1
1926	+ 0.3	+ 9.1
1927	+ 4.2	+ 4.2
1928	+ 2.3	+ 5.1
1929	+ 2.7	+ 8.6
1930	+ 2.3	+ 11.2
1931	+ 1.3	+ 21.6
1932	+ 0.3	+ 46.8
1933	+ 3.6	+ 5.0
1934	+ 3.8	+ 14.9

The greatest discrepancy between estimates and actual receipts appears in the income tax when taken alone. In the four years from 1931 to 1934, in the United States, receipts fell below the original estimates from a minimum of 19 to a maximum of 53.2 per cent; even in the revised estimates, receipts on the average were 10.2 per cent below estimates. The largest discrepancy in the British figures was an excess of receipts above estimates of 5.6 per cent in 1932; while in the 1934 fiscal year income tax receipts in England exceeded estimated receipts by only 0.1 per cent. One explanation for the greater accuracy of the British estimates is that in Great Britain capital gains and losses, which are very difficult to estimate, are not taken into account in the determination of taxable income. But when it is said, the British estimates are so superior to our own that it would pay us to make a close study of their methods.

How Long Will He Laugh?

Thoughts On Modern Life

THE FUTURE BUSINESS MAN

The American business man has lately had to take rather rough treatment at the hands of his critics.

He has not been particularly fortunate in the persons who have discussed him most.

The muckraker has had a go at him.

The mauling press agent has painted halos about his head.

He has yet to find a truly realistic and disinterested portrait painter.

He will never be fully understood until we realize that through most of our national history he has been playing the role of the pioneer even after the last physical frontier had been conquered and cleared.

Figuratively speaking, it was only about day before yesterday that we founded the modern business system and set going the processes of our industrial civilization, and so the American business man could not but play the pioneer.

We must expect pioneers to be a bit swashbuckling. They may pay what seems to a later time but small attention to the more subtle refinements of justice and generosity to competitors, but all that comes with the maturing of a social and economic system. The American business man, being a pioneer, has committed the sins of the pioneer, but he has also displayed the pioneer virtues. He has chalked up to his credit achievements of major values to the masses which no older civilization has produced. But now our industrial civilization is moving out of adolescence into maturity, and this maturing of the business system throws new and larger responsibilities upon the American business man. The business pioneer was all right for the job of crude conquest. The creative developments of policy we must now have call for the business statesman. And if anyone can save us from the state tyranny of Fascism and Communism it is the business statesman. Will he answer "Here" when the call comes?

NOT SOCIAL

"Frederick is a good boy. He gets along well in school, gets good marks and all that. At home he is cheerful and willing to do whatever is asked of him. He plays on the school teams, not brilliantly, but well enough to make the boys want him to stay on the team. I have only one fault to find with him. Once he gets home from school he does not want to play with boys his own age. He will play with his little brother and little brother's friends very happily. Says he enjoys it. But he will not join any club, or go on any trips with his classmates when they invite him. He says he does not enjoy it and would rather be at home. Is that good for him? Should he be allowed to do this?"

"Why not? This boy is 12 years old. He stands high in school which means that he studies hard. He plays on the school teams, which means his full share of play with his own group. When he gets home he is tired in mind and body and wants to relax from the strain of keeping himself on a high level. He lets down by playing happily with his little brother, something that makes the little chap more contented with his lot and helps keep the affectionate relationship between them, which is so desirable."

I have no fear for the boy who has a full day such as this one has. As he grows he will widen his circle of interests and friends, but if he still shows this liking for his own company, a book, and his family, it is nothing to make us anxious about his future usefulness. If he shunned all play, all companionship; if he sat in the corner brooding or reading book after book to drug himself into insensibility, we would have cause for worry. But there is a happy medium between the child who is very sociable and the one who is not sociable at all. That in-between child, who is a little of both and gets on happily, is quite all right.

But what about the one who retreats completely and sits brooding, or, as I suggested, drugging himself by reading mechanically hour after hour? He should be taken to the skilled specialist in mental hygiene. He needs expert advice and treatment. We are always alert to help the adolescent girl but, somehow, we overlook the boy who is in a worse predicament. Very often the adolescent boy who shuns companionship, shirks his work, and becomes lazy and grouchy and stubborn is in need of medical help.

This stage of growth is difficult for all children, but for some it is much worse. Beseiged by parents and teachers, who demand work and successful results, weighted by feelings that are inexplicable and completely binding, he takes refuge in seclusion and silence, and when prodded, in sullen or angry response.

Don't scold such a boy. If he could, he would be smiling and happy and successful. He longs to be like the lad at the head of the procession, but something stronger than his wish holds him down, a prisoner, a captive bound by intangible forces. Spare him your words, your cold looks and your grief. Take him to the specialist who works with such children and get the help he needs as soon as you can. Human beings do not retreat from their kind if they can help it, especially young ones of twelve and thirteen.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

AFTER READING A BOOK ON PSYCHOLOGY

A learned psychologist tells me
That I'll never crack under the strain
And the turmoil and strife
Of this work-a-day life
If I use but a third of my brain.
That leaves room in the old cerebrum
For such thoughts as I need to possess.
But I still don't know how
I can heighten my brow
And win a substantial success.

I should like to improve on my cortex
And become a real leader of thought;
But trouble I find
In expanding my mind
Which does not seem to work as it ought.
Two thirds of my brain will not function,
And the rest is so trifling and small
That however I try
To increase the supply
It simply is no good at all.

So I sit here, distraught and despondent;
The fragment of mind I have got
Just under my roof
When put to the proof
Refuses to aid me a lot.
Hereafter I'll read only novels
That deal with bold, dare-devil crooks;
I shall give all my time
To stories of crime
And forget the psychology books.
